SERIOUS QUESTION FACING CHRISTIANS

In the Matter of Conserving Grain Which is Being Used in the Manufacture of Alcohol According to Jno. T. Ditto. Work Through Senators.

Feb. 21, 1918. Editor Breckenridge News, Cloverport, Ky. Dear Sir: In my mind and judgement, there is a very serious question up before the Christian people of this country as a duty as a citizen of this government and standing for the best welfare of this country in the conserving of food. The people are willing to make the sacrifice and feel it is all right as Uncle Sam says "do it." But the question is this we are called on to observe wheatless, meatless and eatless meals of many things that have been our custom to using and as I said before the people are willing to do this now why do we stand back and not let our Congress men know that while asking this sacrifice of us that they don't take some steps to suspend the wastefulness of grain by the hundreds of thousands of bushels used in the distilleries.

It is used in making a useless product which every man, woman and child would be better off not to use.

It is time that we who call ourselves Christian men and women should let our Congressmen know that we are looking to him as our servant in Congress and desire that he take some definite action along this line. It looks as if every Bible class and every church as a whole who does not take action in this matter is a slacker.

Not only do the breweries of this land consume the immense quantity of grain but think of the thousands of tons of coal that is being wasted for the production of a product which should be used in feeding hogs and making food for the people in place of producing a product that is for man only.

Now is the time for Christian folks to act. Don't be a slacker. Yours truly, John T. Ditto, Decatur, Ill.

K & I Ferry Landed.

The K & I steamer ferry which ferries between Hawesville and Cannelton, has been located at Paducah, Ky., by Capt. Crammond.

The K & I was loosened from its moorings by the Rock Island gorge three weeks ago and was landed in a cornfield near Howell, Ind. When the second gorge from Rising Sun passed the ferry was taken entow again and not until last week did Capt. Crammond telegraph Major Prescott that he had found the K & I at Paducah. The ferry will be repaired in that city before it is brought back to its own port.

All Americans Can Serve.

Every man, woman, and child in this country, who wants to serve the country, can serve it and serve it in a very simple and effective way. Secretary McAdoo says. The service is to lend your money to the Government. Every 25 cents loaned to the Government is a help at this time and practically every man, woman, and child by making some trifling sacrifice, some denial of a pleasure, or giving up some indulgence, can render the Government that support.

KY. PURE BRED LIVE STOCK

Association Holds a Successful Sale of Shorthorns. Forty Head Average $210. W. R. Moorman, Jr., Has Big Sales

The first public sale of Shorthorn cattle held under the auspices of the Kentucky Pure Bred Live Stock Association at the Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, Ky., February 11th. This was the second highest average on Shorthorns, at public sale, made in Kentucky in thirty years.

Forty animals were sold at an average of $210. This is a remarkable average, considering the fact that 50 per cent. of the offerings were calves and there were quite a number of old females. This average for a Shorthorn sale in Kentucky has not been exceeded more than once or twice in the last thirty years.

The top price was $385, paid for the cow, Bessie, consigned by W. R. Moorman & Son, Glen Dean, Ky. Nothing sold for less than $100.

H. T. D. Wills, of Shauns, Tenn., was the largest purchaser.

It was gratifying to see so many cattle go into the hands of new men or beginners in the Shorthorn business.

The list of sales follows:

"We Find God in Trenches"—Private Peat.

Private Peat, the famous soldier who after two years of the worst part of the war has come back to this country, says in the March American Magazine: "If you had taken the biggest opportunity life ever held out to a man, wouldn't you smile? If you had gone down into hell for the sake of people who were there already, wouldn't you come back—if you were lucky enough to get back—with a smile? If you had learned more in the past two years about life and all that makes it worth living than you had found out in the previous twenty, wouldn't you be glad as you had never before dreamed of being glad?"

"I've got a right arm that may never be good even for a hand shake—though I hope it will. Instead of a pair of lungs I've got one and a fraction. But what of that! I notice that people care a lot more about gripping my left hand now than they ever used to care about getting hold of my right. I get all the air with one lung that I seem to need, and it isn't hot air either."

"And suppose I hadn't come back at all? I know I'd be smiling now and I wouldn't be doing it in hell, either. That's what you don't realize, you who are here at home. You don't know how things get clear and plain to us in the trenches. Talk about finding your self! We find more than ourselves. We find God."

Seven Years of Army Life.

Sgt. Frank Pate, son of Mr. Ed. Pate of this city is the third Cloverport boy known to be in Camp Green, Charlotte, N. C.

Sgt. Pate is a member of the regular army and has been in service for seven years, but has never seen active service.

REPORTER SEEKS HIGH PRIVATE

In Camp Jones, Phoenix, Ariz. Priv. Henry DeH. Moorman Gets Another Interview and a Special Mention in Arizona Paper.

Henry DeHaven Moorman, commonwealth attorney for one of the largest judicial districts in Kentucky, county judge, bank director, farmer, railroad attorney and vice president of an oil company, who fought in the Spanish-American war and who for fifteen years has been in the work of the United Confederate association, is at Camp Harry J. Jones.

His home is in Hardinsburg, Ky. Private Moorman—yes, he is a private—is in the headquarters company of the Tenth Field Artillery.

"Why is it Judge Moorman," he was asked, "that you are a private away down there in Arizona, in the Tenth Field artillery?"

Feels Responsibilities.

"Deeply feeling my responsibility as an able bodied man during a world crisis, and wanting to do my bit, I went to the attorney general at Washington. I asked him to please assign me to a regiment so I could do overseas duty. Here I am."

"And how do you like it, Judge?" "I am glad I am here. I like it because I feel that I am serving my country. I am satisfied with my course, regardless of anything that may befall me. I have offered to go direct to France in any capacity; and, if this can not be done, I am ready to go anywhere assigned."

Out at Camp Harry J. Jones a representative of the International went enquiring for Mr. Moorman. The first soldier he asked about Mr. Moorman, replied, "Judge Moorman is in headquarters company up the line. Anybody can tell you where he is."

They All Like Him.

Up the line a crowd of soldiers were getting ready for inspection. When they were asked where Mr. Moorman was, they referred to him as Judge Moorman. They were asked several questions about him, and it was found out that the judge is well liked by the men in his company. They hold him in respect and admiration.

Private Moorman is 37 years old. At a glance one can tell he is every inch a man. He is about six feet tall, weighs 185 pounds, is a very picture of health and has a strong, commanding personality. With a physique full of vigor and power, and with glowing patriotism and sincerity in his deep blue eyes which bespeak an abundance of courage and heroic resolve, he is a man it does a person good to look upon—this private Henry DeHaven Moorman.

Private Moorman has a brother "over there" fighting in the United States army. His brother was a 100 per cent volunteer, too. When Moorman came to Arizona with the Tenth, he wrote to his mother. This is what his mother wrote in return: "I hate to see you go, just as I hated to see your brother go, but since reading your letter and learning how you feel, I have only to say, may God bless you and help you to do what you feel is right and what is your duty—although it breaks my heart to give you both up."

May Get Commission.

Why didn't such a deserving, brainy, talented man get a commission, one may ask. It is prophesied that he will be given a commission when the powers that be realize his sterling worth. But the judge didn't ask for a commission. All he asked for was an opportunity to fight for his country, or to serve his country where he could do the most good.

Judge Moorman went to General Bennett H. Young of Kentucky and asked him for credentials to Senators James and Beckham. The general felt it an honor to give them to him—he said so in a signed newspaper article published in the Kentucky papers about Private Moorman.

When Moorman got to Washington, Senator James introduced him to the adjutant general. "Are you going to apply for a commission?" asked the adjutant general.

Wants to Go Over.

"No, general. I do not ask for a commission. All I want is a chance to fight and serve my country. A private's place is good enough. I should like, however, to be assigned to a regiment which is going to see overseas duty."

And now with the fellows at Camp Harry J. Jones he is proudly wearing the khaki without any black and gold hat cord or any bars, or stars or leaves. He is happy though. He is happy as any man who ever donned a uniform, with the self satisfaction which accompanies a man with a clear conscience who is voluntarily serving his country.

RULINGS FOR SELLING FLOUR

An Equal Amount of Specified Substitutes Must Be Sold With a Sack of Flour. Rule Applies to Millers, Wholesale and Retail Groceries.

The "fifty-fifty" rule of the United States Food Administration, requiring that all sales of wheat flour shall be accompanied with the purchase of an equal number of pounds of one or more of the following substitutes:—Barley Flour, Corn Flour, Corn Starch, Pasterita Flours and Meals, Hominy, Potato Flour, Rice Flour, Soya Bean Flour, Buckwheat Flour, Corn Meal, Corn Grits, Grits, Oatmeal, Rolled Oats and Sweet Potato Flour, has been in force in Kentucky since January 28, 1918. It seems that every customer must purchase the cereals in an amount equal to the white flour which he buys and that every retailer must purchase from his wholesaler in the same proportions and every wholesaler from his miller in the same proportions and each in the chain is charged by the Administration with the duty of assuring himself that no sale is made, unless the substitutes are acquired by the purchaser with the wheat flour.

A purchase can, however, with the consent of the merchant from whom he has purchased the wheat flour, buy substitutes from another merchant or miller, provided he files with the merchant selling him the wheat flour, a certificate which shall state the date, quantity and kind of substitute and from whom purchased and that no other purchase of wheat flour has been made against this certificate.

If the retailer takes such a certificate, he can use it with his wholesaler or miller, in the place of a purchase of substitutes in securing his supply of wheat flour; provided he has made the certificate or certificates so accepted, countersigned or approved by the State or County Administrator.

Under this rule, dealers are entitled to sell to rural and country customers not to exceed forty-eight lbs. of flour with the substitutes and to city and town customers, not to exceed twenty-four pounds of flour with the substitutes.

A further provision has been made as to farmers having on corn, cornmeal or other flour substitutes, by which farmers can fill out a special certificate, stating the same facts as are provided for in the above mentioned certificate but, in addition, stating that he is a farmer and that the substitutes were raised upon his own farm and will be used for human food. A merchant is required to accept these farmers certificates and they are to be retained and transmitted through the chain to the flour miller in exactly the same way. Under this privilege granted to those who raise their own corn or substitutes, the farmer is limited to the purchase of twenty-four pounds of white flour. A copy of this certificate will also be furnished by me upon application to me as Administrator of the county. Merchants are requested to prepare and have on hands copies of these certificates.

In general all parties must confine the sale of flour to their own customers except in exceptional cases and such cases should be reported to my office. They should sell no flour to other customers, except with the required amount of substitutes. They should see to it that, in view of the fact that only seventy per cent (70%) of the normal amount of flour is available, not more than seventy per cent of each customer's individual requirement on last year's basis of consumption is sold to him.

Application for interpretation should be made to me and I will furnish information promptly.

CAIN HAS INTERESTING TRIP OVER STATE

Relates His Experiences While Visiting the State's Various Institutions. Comments On Certain Bills Before the House.

The Board of Control and other officials of Charitable Institutions are asking for an increase of per capita of from $150.00 to $240.00 and for various other special appropriations.

It was deemed expedient that a Legislative Committee be appointed to visit these institutions for the purpose of ascertaining their needs. I was appointed a member of this committee, but did not join it until it reached Louisville, after having visited the institution at Lakeland. From Louisville we went to Hopkinsville, where, I believe, 1,400 inmates are cared for. In going through the various wards there was every evidence of absolute cleanliness, and this condition obtained in all the institutions, which reflects much credit on the officials. The buildings appeared to be in excellent repair, evidences of plenty to eat and wear were conclusive, modern conveniences for light, heat and water were abundant, thirty registered tuberculin tested cows, housed in concrete, electrically lighted, steam-heated dairy barn furnished milk, cream and butter, the cold storage plant was filled with dressed beef, mutton, pork, eggs, etc., etc., the poultry department was alive with white leghorns scratching busily, several incubators were going full blast, all kinds of flowers were blooming in an elaborate green house, a number of large hot beds were being prepared, and after our inspection we were regaled by a meal fit for a king! Prosperity, comfort and happiness seemed to prevail. One of the officials informed me that they had realized a net profit of $3,000 on hogs in the past year.

Somebody's got brains at Hopkinsville, somebody's using them and somebody's getting results!

Returning to Frankfort we went from thence to Danville where the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb is located. After a motor trip of ten miles in two directions from the town we landed at the school. The scenes enacted there while very pathetic to one unaccustomed to such, were extremely interesting. One is impressed by the efficiency of the instructors and the brightness and decorum of the pupils. Here we found the deaf, dumb and blind girl who bids fair to out- rival the noted Helen Keller. This girl can distinguish words by placing her hand on the throat or back of the neck of her instructor and for a girl of fifteen years she displays a wonderful amount of knowledge. It is said that on introduction to a certain man she passed her hand over his face, head and hands. After a year had passed the man presented himself, she inspected him and immediately wrote his name without having had it made known to her during the interval. After having seen her work I do not question the truthfulness of this statement.

Next came the inspection at Lakeland where we found two inmates in "Straight Jackets." Not a very pleasant sight, I assure you. About 1,200 inmates are cared for here. The head of the dairy herd at this place is a big Holstein weighing twenty-three hundred pounds, and is valued at $1,500, if I remember correctly. We were shown a calf two days old and were told that it had just tipped the beam at one hundred and eighty lbs. We did not see it weighed, but I should have guessed it at one hundred and fifty pounds. Here we found about the same evidence of industry, prosperity and comfort that obtained at Hopkinsville although the buildings were not in as good condition.

Returning to Frankfort we visited its institutions and found evidences of much needed repair and financial aid. The Bell School Bill (H. B. 191), which was framed by Superintendent Gilbert and introduced by H. V. Bell, a prominent ex-professor and school superintendent, was reported favorably and is now in the Orders of the Day. Careful investigation of this Bill develops some very objectionable features. An amendment is being prepared to correct same and your Representative is "On the Job" in favor of its acceptance. The faults of the Bill are outlined by Supt. J. R. Meador in the county papers.

House Bill 199 requires teachers and trustees to report parents or guardians of delinquent children to nearest court and provides for fine of $5.00 to $20.00 for each offense.

Anti Shipping bills have been introduced in both Houses. Amendments and substitutes have been and will be offered and while it seems certain that an effective law will finally be enacted it is impossible to state at this time, just what its provisions will be.

House Bill 231 has been reported favorably. Its effect is to re-apportion State road fund providing for State to put up 75% to 25% for State aid road building in counties having less than $5,000,000 assessed property and graduating proportion as assessment increases. Breckinridge County having less than $6,000,000 assessed property would get 70%. In other words, under this proposed law, for each $1,000 of cost of work Breckinridge's County's proportion would be $300 and the State's would be $700. I am strong for the Bill.

The dog tax question will be agitated in the House soon for and against a Bill that provides for license of $2 on males and $4 on females and requires that all dogs be collared and tagged and that they be confined from sunset to sunrise. There will be some heated discussions of this subject and one member declares he intends to sing "You'd Better Quit Kickin' My Dawg Aroun'," in lieu of a speech.

Speaking of dogs, this good town is full of them of all ages, sizes and pedigrees. I counted fourteen on one square not long since. In all my aforesaid trip through some sixteen to eighteen counties, I did not see that many sheep!

Very sincerely,
ROY J. CAIN.

NEW TREATMENT FOR RHEUMATISM CONTAINS RADIUM

Great Rheumatic Curative Property Can Now Be Tried At Home.

Radium for rheumatism at a price within the reach of all.

That's the news which is causing a furor of discussion among those who have been enduring the aches, pains, and twinges of this dreaded complaint.

Heretofore radium treatments have been enormously expensive. Either the sufferer had to journey to some hot springs to drink the water containing the radium emanations, or visit an institution known as an "Emanatorium" where the radium treatment was taken by inhaling the gas—or emanations—given off from a quantity of pure radium.

But now science has learned how to imprison these radium emanations in tablet form so that they may be taken at home with meals and the user put to no inconvenience whatever. Despite the enormous first cost of pure radium, however, these tablets, each producing four mache units of genuine radium emanation, have been placed on the market at a price no greater than that asked for ordinary remedies.

The new treatment is controlled exclusively by the manufacturers of Tanlac, the most widely known general system tonic in America. The radium tablets contain other useful ingredients and an efficacious medicament for external application goes with the package which is being introduced under the name of Tanlac Rheumatism Treatment.

If you are bothered with rheumatism go get Tanlac Rheumatism Treatment and get a real medicine for this complaint. The manufacturers cannot guarantee that it will cure you, but they do guarantee that if you are not satisfied with the results obtained you will get your money back without question.

Buy it at any good drug store where you buy Tanlac, the famous tonic.

say, will add 150,000,000 eggs to our food supply of chicken meat. Investigators have found that because poultry brings 2 cents a pound more in winter than in late spring, many farmers in the South have been throwing away valuable egg profits just to get 8 cents more per hen. They believe that if farmers will keep their laying hens and sell their eggs and then market the birds in the late spring they will not only add to the food supply but actually increase their profits 50 cents per hen. You can't eat your cake but you can poach your eggs and eat the hen later.

ON CROSSING RIVERS.

It should not be forgotten that the Hudson is not the first American river that had to be crossed in winter, or that there have been other winters about as severe as this one. Bancroft's History says of Christmas night, 1776:

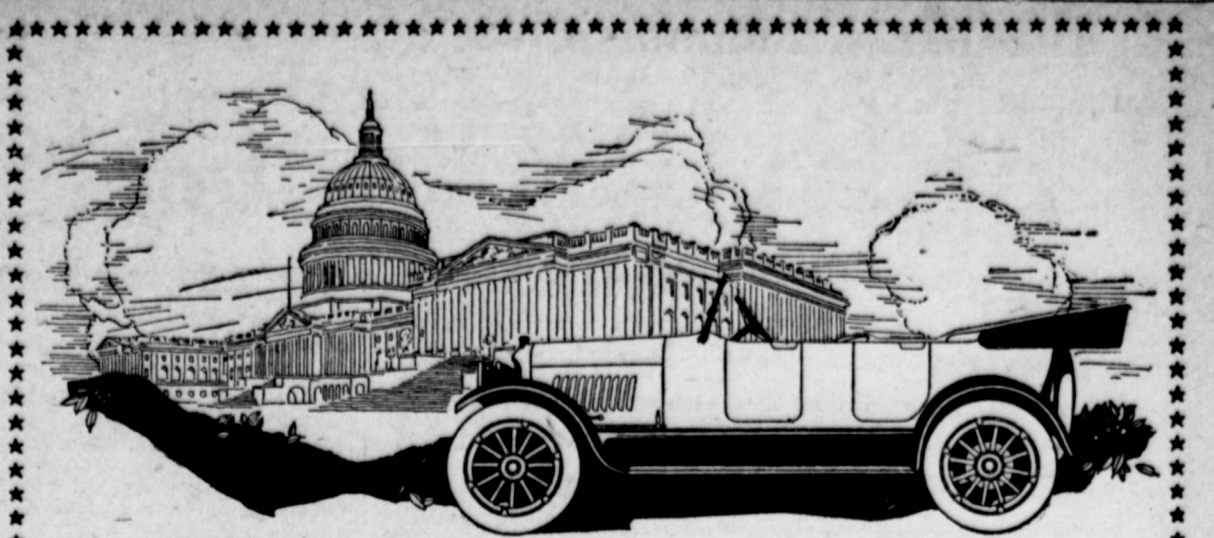

"That night," writes Thomas Rodney, "was as severe a night as I ever saw"; the frost was sharp, the current difficult to stem, the ice increasing, the wind high, and at 11 it began to snow."

General Washington had made up his mind to cross the Delaware. His cargoes were not coal, but tired, cold, hungry, bleeding soldiers. He wanted them on the Jersey side of the river so that he could whip the Germans, just as to-day coal is needed on the Manhattan side of the Hudson to continue the fight against other and more vicious Germans.

Washington had no steamboats, steam ferries, lighters, tunnels, automobiles, electric lights or telephones. He had advice, and it was nearly all discouraging. He wrote to General John Cadwalader:

"Notwithstanding the discouraging accounts I have received from Colonel Reed of what might be expected from the operations below, I am determined as the night is favorable, to cross the river and make the attack on Trenton in the morning. If you can do nothing real, at least create as great diversion as possible."

General Gates, who seems to have had some of the official spirit of 1918, had gone to Washington, although General Washington had given permission to him to go only to Philadelphia. Probably Gates was looking for a conference in a warm room. Washington himself had no warm room, no typewriter with which to

Nationally Known for Economy

THE reputation of the Grant Six as an economical car is based on actual performance—owners named it "the economical car" long before claims of economy became so general in motor car advertising.

Owners average 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline and 900 miles to a gallon of oil. No six built gets better mileage from tires.

The new Grant Six satisfies in every other way also. It is a strikingly beautiful car and it is roomy and easy-riding. Its overhead valve engine, its cantilever rear springs, its full-floating rear axle, the long wheelbase, the adjustable front seats, the excess capacity of cooling, oiling and electrical systems, are a few of the features in which the new Grant Six is superior to any car of comparable price.

All thoughtful Americans realize the importance of the motor car in maintaining national efficiency. The price and the high economy of the Grant Six should make it your choice if you are buying a car this spring.

FARM AND STOCK.

A very interesting meeting of The Farmers' Union was held at McQuady, Saturday, Feb. 16. It was the regular semi monthly meeting. Old Squires was the chairman and the Rev. J. F. Knue, secretary and treasurer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The members got right down to business. They discussed fertilizers, spraying and pruning, wire fencing and tobacco. Each member gave his order for what fertilizer he wanted, wire fencing, spraying material and other farm implements. A car load of fertilizer and fencing wire were ordered. G. A. Wright gave his experience with spraying last year. Said he realized by use of spraying and pruning, $5 per tree, on an old orchard that hadn't produced any fruit for ten years. A number of farmers said they would try spraying on their orchards this spring.

Rev. Knue made a very interesting address on up-to-date methods in farming and cooperation in farm work. Rev. Knue is a leader and a worker. He sees great possibilities for the farmers. There never was a time in the history of farming, he said, than right now and the thing to do was to get right down to work and results would follow. And from the interest manifested by every farmer present at this meeting, we think great results will follow.

W. T. Norris, of Big Spring, qualified last week as deputy county clerk.

Thos. Beard, Hardinsburg, has 200 acres in wheat, Ben Clarkson, of Big Spring, has 200 acres, both crops came out from under the snow looking fine. Wheat all over the county is in fine condition and a big crop is in sight.

Hardee Ball sowed three gallons of navy beans and harvested 1200 pounds, sold them at from 13 to 18 cents pound.

He sold 10,000 pounds of tobacco at 15 cents round, 500 bushels of corn at $1.60; pair of horses to Jim Ball for $310, and a pair of mules to Tom Beard for $400. He left last week for Webb, Ia. In his going, Breckinridge county is losing a mighty good man and farmer. The Breckinridge News wishes him well in his new home.

Dr. J. H. Hart, McDaniels, was in Hardinsburg, Monday. He reports farming conditions and farmers in fine shape. They had good crops, sold them at sky-high prices and are making preparations for another big crop. Says he sold 25,000 pounds of tobacco at $15, raised 3500 bushels of corn and sold 60 head of cattle that brought him $3500. The doctor is one of the big farmers in that section.

W. S. DeJarnette bought Hardee Ball's farm of 140 acres for $5000.

Dan O'Connell, in renewing his subscription, said that he sold his tobacco early. The price, he said, was not as high as some of his neighbors got a little later, but he was satisfied as it was so much higher than he had been getting. Mr. O'Connell says he likes high prices for his products even if he does have to pay more for what he buys. He likes selling in big units.

W. P. Allen, Lodiburg, has sold his farm of 100 acres to Burton and Roberts for $1000.

Alex Anderson, Tobinsport, Ind., shipped, last week, 80 head Duroc hogs that averaged 240 pounds. The finest bunch of hogs that ever came across the river. Good ferry facilities is what brought him over here to ship.

R. A. Fisher, Rockvale, was over at Tobinsport last week and bought a pair of mules from Frank Mitchell for $375. Mr. Fisher is preparing for a big crop this year. He has five pair of good mules to do the work.

W. R. Moorman, Jr., reports 20 lambs from his flock of 55 ewes. Jesse A. Moorman reports 25 lambs and 23 more to come. Both flocks are doing fine.

W. R. Moorman says he has not lost a lamb so far. He attributes his good luck to feeding siage, clover hay and cotton seed meal.

French and Lewis, Stephensport, sold a car load of hogs in Louisville, Friday. Tops brought them 17 cents.

Thos. Mason, Mattingly, was delivering his crop of tobacco at Hardinsburg, Monday. He had 2500 pounds dark; sold at $17 round.

Jas. P. Askins, Glen Dean, bought from Arthur Beard, Monday, one pair 6-year old horses $300. His brother, Vincent Askins, bought a pair of mules for $300. They are planning for a big crop of tobacco.

A. D. Morton, Beech Fork, delivered to Beard Brothers 9000 pounds of dark tobacco, raised on five acres; sold at 20 cents round.

J. C. DeJarnette bought of Beard Brothers 1 pair mules for $250.

C. V. Robertson brought home, from Lexington, a fine saddle mare, standard bred, for $300. A beautiful animal.

Edgar C. Lewis has sold his farm, of about 500 acres, near Glen Dean, to J. H. Sparrow, of Bradfordsville, Ky.; price private. It is understood it was around $40,000. It is one of the best farms in that section. Ves Smith has been renting it for several years. Mr. Sparrow will move on the farm this spring. He will be a valuable addition to that community.

Vic Robertson sold W. R. Moorman & Son a fine mule for $250. This tops the market for price.

Plant beds are burning. Farmers got in their work last week.

Anyone wanting information as to how to raise young pigs, call or write W. C. Pate, Deputy Sheriff. He is an expert in the business.

Don't let your subscription drag. If you are behind please renew. By doing this promptly you save us a lot of work and expense. Postage, you know, has advanced and it takes money now to deal with Uncle Sam. He's a cash in advance man, too—J. D. B.

Jesse M. Howard was over at Tobinsport and Rome, Ind., last week, and picked up a few good mules at fancy prices.

Judge John Aker's message to the farmers, from whom he has bought tobacco, is "Don't bring it on Saturday or Monday, not receiving days."

Tom Lyddan came home from Louisville, Monday, smiling. He sold a load of cattle, 800 pounds average, at $9.50. Said he made good money.

Red Cross Society.

Another much appreciated member enrolled in the Cloverport Red Cross Society. Mrs. W. H. Dutschke, of Ammons, Ky., enclosed $2 in a letter to her cousin, Mrs. J. M. Fitch, "she wanted to help in this great cause and hoped to do more soon."

Mrs. J. M. Fitch has completed her 30 pair socks, 23 surgical sponges and 4 afghans squares.

Being chairman of the knitting committee, she has taught quite a number of women to knit and has inspected every knitted garment sent out by the Cloverport Red Cross.

Men as Food Slackers.

A woman writing in the March Woman's Home Companion asks men to stop scolding her sex and look to their own faults, and she says:

"I'd like to see a count taken of the men who've given up eating butter and sweets to help win this war, and the woman who have given up these two things! It might check some of these persistent scolders of the American housewife and her patriotism. Only a few days ago a friend of mine said to me: 'It would all be so easy if it were not for Arthur. He does so love heavy sweets desserts, and he wants to have steak or roast beef every night for dinner and bacon every morning for breakfast. I can't make him see that it does matter, even if we have the money to buy these things. I try to tell him that it's a matter of honor not to eat them all the time, so that there'll be enough to go round for everybody. But he only acts peevish and wants to increase my house allowance.'"

It's incidents like this that have brought me to the profound belief that after the Food Administration has shown the women what they can do to save food and check waste, then, then, the real work will begin, for the '11 have to make all the heavy middle-aged men with long-indulged appetites come up to scratch, too."

Modern 23rd Psalm.

Uncle Sam is our uncle, we shall not want. He maketh us to lie down without any meat: he leadeth us beside the still factory. He restoreth our loans: he leadeth us in path of economy for his name's sake.

Yea tho we walk through the streets of Berlin we will fear no evil; for he will be with us; his army and navy will comfort us.

He prepareth a table for us in the presence of our enemy; he covereth our heads with a steel helmet; our confidence runneth over.

Surely victory will follow us all the days of our battles; and we will be in the house of the Kaiser before long.—Hopkinsville New Era.

The seed corn scarcity will not take care of itself. Farmers, to be sure of seed for planting in the spring, must save it this winter. Unless they do save it they or other farmers will be without seed corn in the spring. The only choice is between making sure now or causing a scarcity in the planting season.

CLUB HIS WEAPON HE GETS REVENGE

British Captain Kills Five Germans as Toll for Maiming His Baby.

THEN TAKES MACHINE GUN

Wounded in Fighting, the Captain Holds His Command Until Relief Comes—Another Hero During Offensive at Masnières.

With the British Armies in France.—The full story of the heroism of a British captain, who was so moved with hatred of the Germans for crippling his child with a bomb that he attacked and killed five of them with a club and withstood a German onslaught by his inspiring leadership, has just been received. The tale has made the captain's name a byword of bravery in the British camp. Here are the facts:

When the Germans delivered their tremendous assault against Masnières and Maroing during their offensive on November 30, those two towns and the territory about them were being held by a division of English troops. On the staff of the commanding general there was a captain who may be designated as Captain Black.

Black was a man of long service. He had been a jovial companion until recently, when during a German air raid over England his baby girl was crippled for life by a bomb. Black had become bitter against the Germans and had sworn that he would exact full penalty for the airman's deed.

Gets His Revenge.

The captain little knew when he turned in for the night of November 29 how soon he would get his revenge. Next morning the Germans attacked Masnières, and the brigade to the right of the troops holding the town was forced to fall back. The brigade in the town, however, stood firm and fought the enemy off. Meanwhile, waves of Germans had swept by to the south of the town and were swarming westward.

Captain Black came out of his headquarters, south of Maroing, to find five Germans already in possession of a great dump nearby. Black had in his hand a heavy walking stick which was his only weapon. Without a moment's hesitation he charged the dump alone and beat about him so fiercely that he brained all five opponents before they recovered from the surprise. He had made good his vow, but his work was not finished.

Other Germans appeared west of Les Rues Vertes, a southern suburb of Masnières. Black collected all the signposts, coats, orderlies and other servants available, and with two companies of regulars delivered an attack toward Rues Vertes. The Germans fell back and fierce hand-to-hand fighting followed. Black led his little army from house to house, and as often as the Germans made a stand he drove them out, until finally the whole suburb had been cleared, with the exception of one machine gun, whose crew of eight men kept pumping bullets into the British ranks.

Black charged this machine gun with one orderly. Four other orderlies had been shot down beside him previously, and this one also was caught as the machine gun was reached. Black then attacked the Germans with a revolver in each hand and shot down the last man of eight. This cleared Rues Vertes of the enemy and outposts were established about the place. Black had been wounded during the fighting, but he held on to his command until relief came next day.

Colonel Is a Hero.

This story is not the only one to be related of that bitter day at Masnières. A regiment which had the stiffest part of the fighting in the town was made up of troops known as "die hards," and they fought all day with rifles and bayonets at close quarters and never gave a step. During the fighting the colonel had been wounded in one eye, and so serious was his injury that his other eye became useless. His troops continued to be so hard pressed that it seemed probable they would give way.

The colonel knew they needed all the encouragement possible. He called for an orderly, and, led by his servant, he started making a round of the front line to speak words of encouragement to his troops. For hours this blind man, with bandaged eyes, kept up his tramp among his men with his hand in that of his orderly guide. This heroic example was the final word for the Tommies. They loved their colonel, and they stood and died for him and held their line.

that is long to be remembered.

The Rising Sun Gorge which passed here Thursday was the second one; and as predicted, it was not as large as the first or Rock Island gorge, owing to the distance it had traveled.

One of the most unusual sights of the last gorge was to see the innumerable boats, barges and all kinds of river craft which it held enpacked and was carrying somewhere down the Ohio. And it was also amusing to hear various stories relative to the number of objects that passed during the day. One individual who claimed to keep strict account for two hours was Casper Gregory, and his countings numbered 164, including 133 barges, 15 house boats, 2 government boats, 1 derrick, 8 gasoline boats, 3 wharfs and 2 ferry boats.

GUESSING THE WOMEN'S AGES

New Game Among Cape Steamship Passengers Stirred Up Wrath of Entire Party.

To relieve the monotony of a recent homeward voyage, the smoking-saloon habitués of a Cape steamship invented a new sweepstake. The bright idea originated during a debate as to the age of one of the women passengers. "Let's take all the women in the passenger list," suggested the sportsman who thought of the sweepstake, "and each of us guess their individual ages, add up the total, and hand his estimate to the purser. The purser has exact information in the age declaration of every passenger. He can add up the true aggregate, and the man who comes nearest to it takes the pool."

The sweepstake was carried out, but, so far from beguiling the tedium of a voyage it made it worse, relates a correspondent, for it ended in a certain number of embittered men, a wrathful purser, and a ship's company of suspicious and quarrelling women.

First of all, the women saloon passengers could not understand, and much resented, men passengers walking round their chairs, making calculations with pencils, studying their hairs and complexions with perturbing curiosity.

Then, when the sweep was drawn, the mean man was embittered who had secretly gone round to most of the women passengers and tried to elicit their ages. The mean man's aggregate estimate was 450 years under the winner's guess. The innocent man was also embittered who had gone round to women asking them to give him their judgment as to other women's ages. The innocent man's estimate was 800 years above the winner's guess.

And the purser was most embittered of all, for not one woman passenger would speak to him the rest of the voyage.

SITE OF EL DORADO FOUND

Ruins of "Legendary" City Reported to Have Been in a Brazilian Forest.

Madrid, Spain.—News has been received here of the discovery in Brazil of the site of the Incan city, known to early Spanish and Portuguese explorers as El Dorado, and hitherto regarded as legendary. The ruins are in the Manoa region, near the Bolivian frontier, in the midst of a dense forest. An archaeological expedition, including Brazilian, Spanish and Portuguese scientists, will make a detailed study of the district.

The Beer of Borneo.

Beer as made by the natives of Sarawak, in the northwestern region of Borneo varies in its ingredients according to the different tribes who make it, the most intoxicating being that made by the Bisiyahs of Limbang. These people make their beer by boiling rice, adding yeast, crushed wild chili and a large lump of wood ash. This is all put into a jar till the jar is two-thirds full, and covered over with bamboo supports; water is poured on till the jar is full, and the beer is then ready for drinking. The drinking is performed by pushing bamboo tubes down to the bottom of the jar and then sucking up the liquid. So that no one shall have more than his fair proportion at a time, a system of floats is arranged whereby the amount of drink consumed by each man is registered.

One Tropical Spot.

Only at one place in the United States is there real tropical vegetation, says the Popular Science Monthly. Florida and California have what is called "sub-tropical" vegetation. In the midst of a desert in the extreme southern part of California is a true oasis. The oasis, Palm Springs, lies 250 feet below the sea level. So hot is it there that there is a riot of vegetation all the year round. Enormous fig trees and mammoth grape fruit and oranges are always to be had. The lemons that grow there weigh two and a half pounds apiece. The responsibility for all this may be laid to a beautiful little stream which is fed by the Colorado river and which flows through the oasis only to disappear into the ground at its end.

Did Not Fool the Bear.

Bruin is self-educated, but exceptionally wise in the way of mankind. A prospector proved that. Having suffered the loss of much food, he prepared a particularly tasty morsel for the bear and left it in the cabin, with a notice on it to warn any prospectors or hunters that might enter that it was intended for bruin, and bruin alone. The bear arrived in due course—and ate everything edible and some things that were not, but passed up the meat that had been prepared for him. And it was bacon, too. This prospector declares that the bear must be able to read.

HOUSING DAIRY CATTLE

It is not necessary to build elaborately or to use the most expensive materials in order to satisfactorily house dairy cattle, in the opinion of the author of Circular No. 199, of the Illinois Experiment Station, at Urbana, Ill. "It is essential that the roof be waterproof, the sides windproof, and the stable floor durable and sanitary." An adequate means of ventilation is also an essential.

bag is placed over this hoop, and the outside hoop is placed over it, writes C. J. Lynde in Farmers Mail and Breeze. By screwing up the nut on the bolt of the outside band the bag is held firmly in place.

GOOD WORK OF INOCULATION

That Legumes Are Benefited Is Shown by Several Experiment Stations—Increases Growth.

Farmers sometimes question the advisability of inoculating legumes. That legumes are benefited by inoculation has been shown by several experiment stations. The Wisconsin, Illinois and other stations have shown that inoculation gives decidedly beneficial results.

In the first place, inoculation increases the total growth of the plant, giving greater yields of hay. In most test cases the hay crop has been increased about 20 per cent and in some instances it has been doubled. Not only is more hay produced, but the hay is richer in protein and consequently of higher feeding value, according to W. A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri college of agriculture. Cowpea hay from plants, inoculated at the Illinois station, contained 28 per cent protein while plants not treated carried but 15 1/2 per cent of this valuable food constituent. Inoculation enables the plant to get nitrogen from the air in addition to that from the soil. This not only conserves the supply, but when the crop is turned under it increases the nitrogen content of the soil.

Inoculation, then, is beneficial because it increases the yield and improves the quality of hay and enriches the soil through the nitrogen of the air. These benefits justify the expense and trouble of inoculation.

LIFE REVOLVES ABOUT CLUBS

Institutions in Havana Have an Influence Probably Not Felt in Any Other City.

In Havana the whole political, social and commercial life pivots on the clubs. They are a tremendous influence in every way. They are of all kinds, of all sizes, of all degrees of exclusiveness and exclusiveness. The largest are the so-called "centros," which were founded under Spanish rule, by men of Spanish birth, in order to furnish a bond and a meeting place for men from the same province of Spain. Thus the "Centro Gallego" was founded for Galicians, and the "Centro Asturiano" for Asturians. The former of these is now the largest club in the world.

Besides these centros, there are numerous other sorts of clubs. There are clubs for the laboring man, where for $1.50 a month he gets not only the social and convivial privileges of the club-house, but benefit and protective insurance, night school advantages for his family, a hospital for himself, even the services of dentists and opticians. One club goes so far as to maintain an asylum. On the other hand exclusive clubs of the conventional type are not lacking—clubs for the rich, yacht clubs, athletic clubs and political clubs. Havana's motto seems to be: "To each man a club according to his needs."

Practically without exception these clubs, large and small, have housed themselves in beautiful buildings. White marble walls, statuary and mural painting, pillared halls and fountains, courtyards reflect the artistic spirit of Latin America. Havana's clubs go far toward making her a beautiful city.

LIFE—PRICE WE PAY FOR IT

Penalties of Fame Are Debts of All Existence, With "High Cost of Living" Significant.

The penalties of fame are the penalties of all life, which, when one views it resolutely and without taking refuge behind rose-colored spectacles, seems with contradictions that give a deeper significance to that well-worn phrase, "the high cost of living." And the chief part of the expense lies not in the things—food, clothing, shelter—which are demanded by our material and bodily needs as human animals, writes Mary Garden in the New York World.

Really to live as woman or as man implies to want something or other very greatly. And really to want something very greatly means to strive for that something with insatiable eagerness. And thus to strive means one of two things—disappointment; or achievement and the realization that in gaining the one thing's score of others have been missed.

Such is life and the price we pay for it.

Maysville.—River traffic has been resumed here with an unprecedented lot of freight being handled by the steamboats.
